Executive Lunch with Stephen Ibaraki, I.S.P., MVP, DF/NPA, CNP

As part of our biggest event of the year, Professional Development Day in the West End, we are proud to announce our keynote speaker, Stephen Ibaraki at lunch addressing the topical issues of interest to IT professionals today.

Stephen Ibaraki, is a 35+ year veteran of Business and IT and serves the Canadian Information Processing Society (CIPS) as Director-at-large. He carries a CIPS I.S.P (Information Systems Professional) professional designation, Canada's only legislated IT designation; an Network Professional Association (NPA), CNP (Certified Networking Professional) networking professional designation, and is a Distinguished Fellow (DF) and Microsoft Most Valuable Professional (MVP). Stephen's first experiences with technology occurred in 1965—more than 40 years ago when he built his first analog computer.

Stephen Ibaraki is also the first Canadian to receive the Top Three IT/Business Honours (International, Canadian, and from a Corporation)
