

Curriculum Vitae

Name: Niko SCHLAMBERGER, Mr
Born: 1942 in Kranj, Slovenia
Nationality: Slovenian
University degree: University of Ljubljana, Slovenia, Faculty of Mechanical Engineering, in 1968

After having worked shortly in manufacturing industry, his professional experience is in the field of information technology in programming, application development, consulting, project management, and general management in IT industry, in business, and in government. His career experience includes positions: head of software development in the major Slovenian bank, IT consultant, assistant to general manager of the (now) ex-Yugoslavian federal clearing agency, and head of Slovenian government information technology office. His last formal position was Secretary at the Statistical Office of the Republic of Slovenia, in charge of special projects. He is the President of the national computer society -- Slovenian Society INFORMATIKA (SSI), a member of Language Chapter of SSI and a member of Board of Editors of, and a reviewer for, the Society's professional journal Uporabna informatika (Applied Informatics). He is a reviewer for the journal Information Technology and Control, published by Bulgarian Academy of Sciences.

After having been elected a Trustee he was in 2003 elected Vice-President of International Federation for Information Processing (IFIP) for a three year term. In 2006 he was elected again for the same office with a three-year mandate. Also in 2003 he has been elected Honorary Secretary of Council of European Professional Societies (CEPIS) and in 2006 as CEPIS President Elect, to start the three-year presidential mandate in fall 2007. In 2004 he has been a CEPIS candidate for a substitute board member of newly established European network information security agency (ENISA) and so appointed by the European Commission.

He was a visiting lecturer at the High School of Administration at the University of Ljubljana and has written a textbook on computer programming fundamentals. He is member of programme committees of national and international computing and informatics conferences and has contributed papers for national and international conferences. His bibliographical record shows over fifty papers, reports, and reviews on computing, information technology, general management, classifications, and administrative matters.

2009 - retired; President of Slovenian Society INFORMATIKA, IFIP Vice President, CEPIS President; advisor to Ministry of Health; advisor to national Social Security Fund; head of On-line Health Services project board
2008 - 2009 President of Slovenian Society INFORMATIKA, active in IFIP as Vice President, active in CEPIS as President; advisor to Ministry of Health; advisor to national Social Security Fund; head of On-line Health Services project board

2004 - 2008	appointed Secretary at the Statistical Office of the Republic of Slovenia; in charge in leading special projects, introduction of classified data protection system
1997 - 2004	appointed State Undersecretary at the Statistical Office of the Republic of Slovenia; project team for development methodology of project development in administration; experience in work with government bodies; have lead the final part of project of modernisation of state statistics; elected president of the Slovenian Society INFORMATIKA ; in January 2002 elected President of the society for second term; in August 2003 elected Vice-President of International Federation for Information Processing (IFIP)
1993 - 1997	appointed Counsellor to the Government at the Statistical Office of the Republic of Slovenia; experience in state statistics; a member of project team for state data model; have finished a project of re-engineering of Slovenian business register; have started project of re-engineering of the Central Register of Population, member of project team for defining of state data model
1990 - 1993	appointed the first director of the Government Centre of Informatics; in charge of computerisation of most of the government departments; experience in co-ordination of IT support in government departments
1983 - 1990	appointed Assistant to the General Manager of the Slovenian Clearing Agency; have lead development of the country's first working EDIFACT based financial application; experience in co-ordination of IT support and application development for the Agency
1980 - 1983	appointed Director of the Common Data Processing Centre of the Slovenian Clearing Agency; have lead the project of development of internal IT standards for the Agency; experience in organizing IT support, application development and implementation of IT solutions
1977 - 1980	Head of the Application Development Department at Ljubljanska Banka United Bank; involved in development of several banking computer application; engaged in computer user training; experience in understanding and implementation of IT solutions in banking
1975 - 1977	Computer Consultant at the University of Ljubljana, Institute Jožef Stefan; developed business applications for Slovenian companies; prepared and carried out computer user training seminars; experience in consulting; experience in consulting and user relations
1969 - 1975	joined IBM as systems engineer trainee, left as a systems engineer industry group leader; completed IBM training; was engaged in field support in various Slovenian and Bosnian companies; visiting instructor at the IBM Training Centre in Radovljica, Slovenia; in charge of setting up computer data centres; developed and implemented computer application programs; experience in programming and system analysis
1968 - 1969	junior research engineer in a R&D department in an optical and fine mechanics factory Vega, Ljubljana, Slovenia
Languages	Slovenian; fluent in English, Croatian/Serbian; can read and write Cyrillic alphabet; can communicate in German; elementary knowledge of French and Italian

Family life married, two grown-up daughters, living in own terrace house in Ljubljana, Slovenia

Hobbies mountaineering, skiing

Health less than 30 days of sick leave during all professional career

*

*

*